

Search our archi

Back Home

Share: ShareThis Print

Colorful horse makes it way across village

By Thomas Marcetti, Staff Writer
Hillsdale Daily News

Posted Sep 03, 2009 @ 10:56 AM

Thomas Marcetti

Mike Venturini stands near a pink and gold pony statue Wednesday morning. He said the statue appeared in his yard in front of the Munro House Bed and Breakfast at 202 Maumee St. Jonesville Monday night and despite having seen it around village over the summer, he said he has no idea how it got there.

More related photos

Jonesville, Mich. — The mystery of the pink pony may sound like a story Sir Arthur Conan Doyle may have written, but for Jonesville residents it is more of an inside joke.

“It’s pretty wacky,” said Mike Venturini, owner of the Munro House, the most recent host of the gold and pink stallion.

Venturini said the approximately 3-foot-tall bronco weighs several hundred pounds and has made its way to various homes and businesses throughout the village.

“It’s quite the practical joke. This isn’t something I can move real easily,” he said.

Most people around the village just shake their heads and laugh when asked about the seemingly-wanderlust equine.

Read the rest of the article here or contact the front desk at 517-437-7351 for print editions.

“It’s just a prank among some of the men downtown,” Lenore Spahr, village finance director and treasurer said.

- Pantries fee sour econor increasing c for food (09/03/09)
- Interactive t teachers sei students are (09/04/09)
- Fair’s histor: in book (09/03/09)
- Photo: Traile destroyed ir fire (09/04/09)
- Part of villag dark when s line (09/04/09)
- Photo: New Alternative E (09/04/09)
- County commission approve res against toba hike (09/03/09)
- Colorful hor: it way acros (09/03/09)
- Jonesville ar Joint Master draft on disp (09/03/09)
- Teen arreste